DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is responsive to the Amendment/Remarks filed by the applicant on 11/16/2005.
2. The office acknowledges applicant's amendment of the Abstract of the Disclosure. The abstract is considered acceptable.

Response to Amendment/Remarks

3. Applicant's amendments/remarks, filed 11/16/2005, with reference to rejection of claims 1-7, 10-16 and 31-37, have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

The claim rejection and response follow.

4. Applicant's remarks - The applicant alleges, see pages 7-9, that Levin (reference 6,130,882) does not disclose the determination of channel frequency response on a per bin basis and the receiving data dependence upon the retrieved measurements as claimed (reference claims 1, 10 and 31(new)). The Applicant has amended claims 2, 4, 11 and 13, rendering the arguments moot. The rejection based on the amended claims 2, 4, 11 and 13 to follow elsewhere in this office action.

The examiner's response – With reference to applicant's remarks regarding channel frequency response determination and initialization, the examiner respectfully would like to draw applicant's attention to Levin, col. 1, lines 37- 57 and col. 2, lines 1-8, 51-61; col. 3, lines 50-65; col. 4, lines 1-35, disclosing the features such as noise and signal to noise ration determination and storage inherent as part of the ADSL communications including disclosure regarding calculations and exchange of application specific parameters (bit rate, noise and signal to noise ration) between the central office (first end) and the remote unit (second end). Based on information disclosed in Levin, the examiner concludes that the claimed limitations are satisfied.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 1-7, 10-16, 31-33-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Levin (USP 6,130,882).

Regarding claims 1, 31, Levin discloses a method of retrieving channel characteristics for a discrete multi-tone communication channel comprising: determining and storing on a per bin basis channel frequency response and noise measurements at a first end (Central Office (CO)) of the channel at initialization (abstract; col. 1, lines 37-42; col. 3, lines 60-63); determining and storing a signal-to-noise measurement on a per bin basis at the first end (Central Office (CO)) at show time (col. 4, lines 1-9; col. 8, lines 10-25); retrieving the stored (look-up table) channel frequency response, noise and signal-to-noise measurements at a second end of the channel (CPE) (col. 8, lines 10-15); and receiving data at the second (CPE) end at a rate in dependence upon the retrieved measurements (col. 2, lines 50-61, 66-67; col. 3, lines 1-4).

Regarding claims 2, 11 and 32, Levin discloses first end comprises a central office (CO) end, and the second end comprises a premise equipment (CPE) end (fig. 1; col. 3, lines 50-60).

As per claims 3, 6, 12, 15, 33 and 36, Levin discloses the channel is asymmetrical as in ADSL (col. 3, lines 51-51).

As per claims 4, 13 and 34, these claims are analyzed in a similar fashion as claims 2, 11 and 32 as Levin discloses transmitter to receiver and receiver to transmitter functions in a transceiver embodiment.

Regarding claims 5, 14 and 35, Levin discloses the channel is non-overlapping (see col. 4, lines 15-31).

As per claims 7, 16 and 37, the claims are design related and the xDSL technology can be adapted to a very high bit-rate DSL channel in Levin.

As per claim 10, the steps claimed as circuit (apparatus) is nothing more than restating the function of the specific components of the apparatus as claimed and therefore, it would have been obvious, considering the aforementioned rejection for the method claim 1 above.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

US Patents:

Rudnick (US Pub. 2002/0131371) discloses a method to dynamically change all MIB parameters of a wireless data network.

Gerszberg et al (USP 6,044,403) discloses a network server and video application server.

O'Toole et al (US: 6,373,860) shows a dynamically assigned voice and data channels in DSL.

Amrany et al (US 6,192,109) discloses apparatus and method for improved DSL communication.

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
